GALATA MEVLEVİ LODGE MUSEUM

MY STORY STARTED IN 1491
SO MANY HEARTS AVE RIPENED HERE IN GOD'S CAUSE...

With its historical Main Door, Galata Mevlevi Lodge awaits you at one end of İstiklal Street of Beyoğlu, and to the left at the beginning of Galip Dede Street. This lodge would be referred to as Galata or Kulekapısı Mevlevi Lodge or Galip Dede Tekke, during the Ottoman era. It was established in 1491 and represents the most important Ottoman works in Beyoğlu along with Galatasaray (Galata Palace) School. In 1975, it was opened to visitors as Divan Literature Museum before it was reorganized as Galata Mevlevi Lodge Museum in 2011.

Dervish Cells (Sema House downstairs)

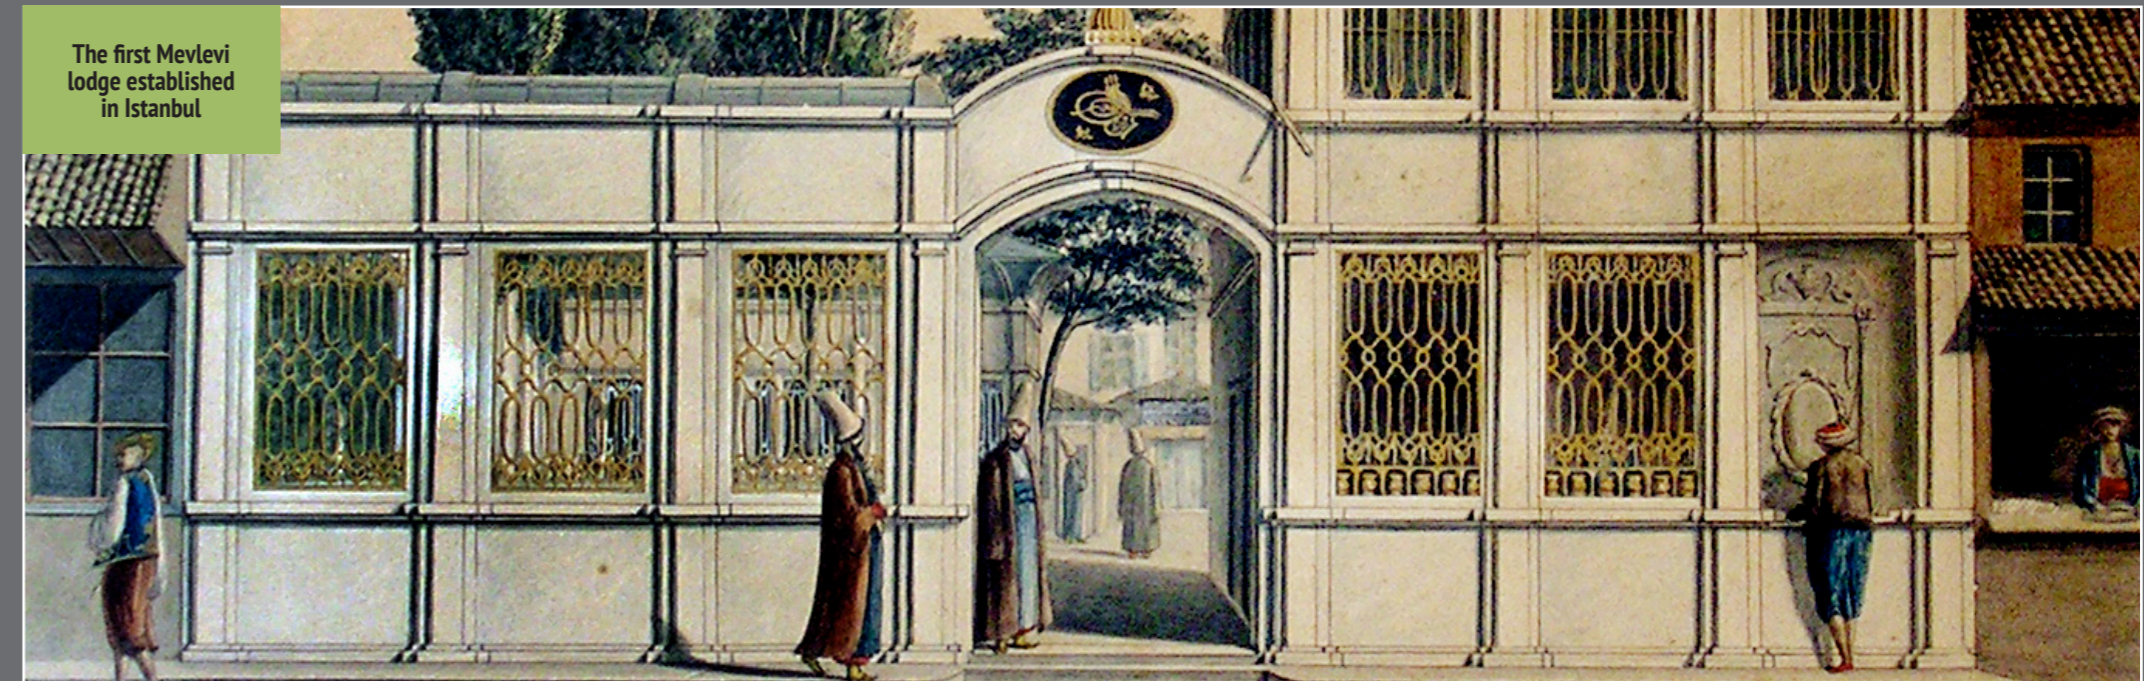

The main subject matter of the museum is explained at the dervish cells downstairs. This section starts with Sufism and Sufi brotherhood and ends with "Last Mevlevi's" Here the tools and objects related to the brotherhood and fine arts are displayed. At the central hall, you can find a video Show on the history of the museum as well as the old photographs of the lodge and maps indicating the Mevlevi lodges in Turkey and around the world.

Sema Area (Sema House ground floor)

There is an epitaph above the gateway about the renovation done during the reign of Sultan Abdülmejid I. Passing through the gateway, you are faced with walnut floor. The mihrap (prayer niche) and minber (pulpit) are found at the back of the Sema area. There is a calligraphy panel reading "Ya Hazrat-e Mawlana" penned by Yesarizade Mustafa İzzet, before the Mutrib Mahfil (lodge) facing the Sema area.

Lodges (Sema House upstairs)

The lodges (mahfil) and back rooms facing the Sema area from three sides except the prayer niche (mihrap) direction are used to exhibit other Works from the Museum collections. In the lodges can be found the Marbling Exhibition by Mustafa Düzgünman, the Calligraphy Exhibition, the Hilye-i Şerif (Sublime Characteristics of Prophet Muhammad) Exhibition, the Çelebi Lodge, the Royal Lodge and the Ottoman Army Band and Musical Instruments Exhibition.
